

Expressions of interest in being part of AccessCR's efforts to improve community clinical trial awareness and participation.

Welcome

AccessCR is committed to increasing community involvement in clinical trials and as such, would like to connect with individuals and organisations with similar interests.

The purpose of this form is provide a platform for community members to share their specific experience and interest in clinical trials, and the ways they would like to help us in our activities to increase community engagement in clinical trials.

If at any time you are uncomfortable providing information via this survey, please feel free to introduce yourself instead by email, sharing the ways and ideas you have for contributing to or hearing about our activities in this area.

Thanks in advance for your interest in clinical trials, and I look forward to being a part of this movement with you.

A little about you

* 1. From what perspective(s) are you registering your Expression of Interest ? (Tick all that apply)

- As a member of the public
- As a research professional (non-commercial)
- As a health professional
- As a therapeutics industry professional (commercial)
- As a professional working for/in government or government agencies
- Other (please specify)

* 2. What is your clinical trials related interest or experience?

If you are not sure what to say, here are some examples of what you could write: clinical trial participant; someone you know has been in a clinical trial; clinical trial advisory panel consumer rep; clinical trial protocol development; research panel making strategic or funding decisions about clinical trials; just really interested in the potential of clinical trials, though not yet actively involved in any capacity; helping promote clinical trials; clinical trial policy making; helping share clinical trial results; being a peer for clinical trial participants; etc.

3. In which patient population and/or disease area is your clinical trials interest/experience?

For example: diabetes, breast cancer, paediatrics, spinal injury, falls in the elderly, diet and exercise, rehabilitation, dementia, chronic disease, pain, no particular area, specific rare diseases, etc.

4. Our health and research stories do not usually represent the whole of our being. Tell us a little about the person you are and what you do in the rest of your life that may bring skills, experience or networks to be able to help with the problems we hope to help solve, or the activities we might run.

Examples might include: being a parent or carer; running a small business; professional skills such as project management, marketing, PR, advertising, training, design, event management, web design, IT management, coding, user experience, lawyer, accountancy, raising funds; creative skills like cartooning, drawing, painting, animation, videography, photography; being a part of clubs, organisations and interest groups like Rotary, Probus, sporting clubs, networking groups, music and arts organisations; or anything else you think might be of interest.

5. Please let us know below the types of activities you'd like to hear more about, and whether you would like to receive newsletters from AccessCR, so that we can be sure not to trouble you unnecessarily in the future.

- Involvement in an AccessCR Consumer Advisory Panel to be established, providing feedback on the direction of AccessCR's consumer-related initiatives
- Involvement as facilitators when training workshops are run
- Involvement in clinical trial related projects/activities AccessCR may be approached to conduct
- Direct email notification of specific AccessCR projects where consumer input is sought, in case I can help.
- Please sign me up for an email newsletter to be launched with information about consumer involvement in clinical trials, and related events/projects.
- Please sign me up for the general AccessCR newsletter to be launched, which covers a broader range of clinical trials topics
- Please do not contact me again for any reason, unless I initiate contact with you in the future.
- Other (please specify)

* 6. In order for us to be able to respect your wishes as noted above, please enter below as a minimum, your email address, as well as any other contact details you are comfortable providing.

Alternatively, if you would prefer not to leave your details online, please print/save a copy of your answers and email them to Janelle@AccessCR.com.au

7. We have lots of ideas for building this community and increasing community awareness of clinical trials, but I am sure there are plenty we haven't thought of. We also have limited resources, so want to make sure we are applying most effort to those activities that are likely to make a difference.

If you are happy to share, what ideas do you have that you think could help improve community awareness and participation in trials, that you might like to work with us on, or think we should consider adding to our plans?

8. As we develop a community, it makes sense that there be a platform for community members to interact. Which of the following would you like to see us develop to build the community and enable further connections and information/ideas sharing?

- Facebook page
- LinkedIn group
- Twitter hashtag
- Online video chats eg Periscope, Blab
- Face to face networking events or meetings
- None needed - I am unlikely to want to connect with other community members
- Other tool/idea (please specify)

9. How did you hear about AccessCR?

- Word of Mouth
- Twitter
- Facebook
- LinkedIn
- Google Search
- Website link
- Personal contact
- Other (please specify)
